INTRODUCTION

On 22 September 1994 a Directive on European Works Councils was adopted by the EU Council of Ministers. The European Trade Union Confederation had been calling for this development for more than 20 years. The Directive requires the installation of a European Works Council in companies employing 1000 persons within the European Economic Area taken as a whole, and 150 or more employees in each of at least two countries.

Soon after the Directive was adopted, the European Trade Union Institute (ETUI), in collaboration with a number of research institutes in various countries, began to draw up an inventory of companies covered by its provisions. The result of this work was first published in 1995. Since then, it has been updated in 1996, 1998 and 2000.

As a result of the third update, the ETUI now presents this 2000 version of the Multinationals Database. It is databased on MS Access. The full version of the database is available on CD-ROM. This booklet presents some reports drawn from the Multinationals Database.

This book contains two main parts. In both of them all companies within the scope of the EWC Directive are presented, in two different ways, in the first report by country of ownership and in the second by sector of activity.

For each of these covered companies the following data can be found in both main reports; their country of ownership, the countries in which the companies have subsidiaries, the overall number of employees in the European Economic Area, the companies' sector of activity, and, finally, the type and date of the agreement at the origin of the EWC, if there is one.

The classification in sectors of activity has been established on the basis of the Nace codes. Apart from the fact that many multinationals are active in more than one sector, this classification should be viewed with some caution. Some companies have chosen to install EWCs at branch level and, in such cases, one covered company ends up with more than one EWC. Then there are EWCs that have revised or renewed their original installation agreement. Consequently, the number of EWC agreements can be higher than the number of existing EWCs, which can in turn be higher than the number of companies that have installed one or more EWCs. Our 1998 Yearbook article includes safeguards aimed to prevent the drawing of unwarranted conclusions from this data. Detailed reports on recent EWC developments can be found in the 1999 and the 2000 issues of the ETUI Yearbook (<http://www.etuc.org/etui/publications/Yearbook>).

Finally we include a general alphabetical list of all covered companies that may serve to locate information for a company of which you do not know the country of ownership or the sector of activity.

An up-to-date list of companies with EWCs can be found on the ETUI website, at Internet-address <http://www.etuc.org/etui/databases/ewclist.pdf>. The full text of these EWC agreements is available on CD-ROM. For more information on the full-text database with EWC agreements, please visit <http://www.etuc.org/etui/databases/Fulltext>. The European Foundation for the Improvement of Living and Working Conditions has made a standard analysis of EWC agreements. The resulting database is available on <http://www.eurofound.ie/ewc>. For the texts of the Directive and its national transpositions, the website of EU Commission DG V is the place to go; http://europa.eu.int/comm/employment_social/soc-dial/labour/directive9445/.

The legal texts can be downloaded here: http://europa.eu.int/comm/employment_social/soc-dial/labour/directive9445/download/.

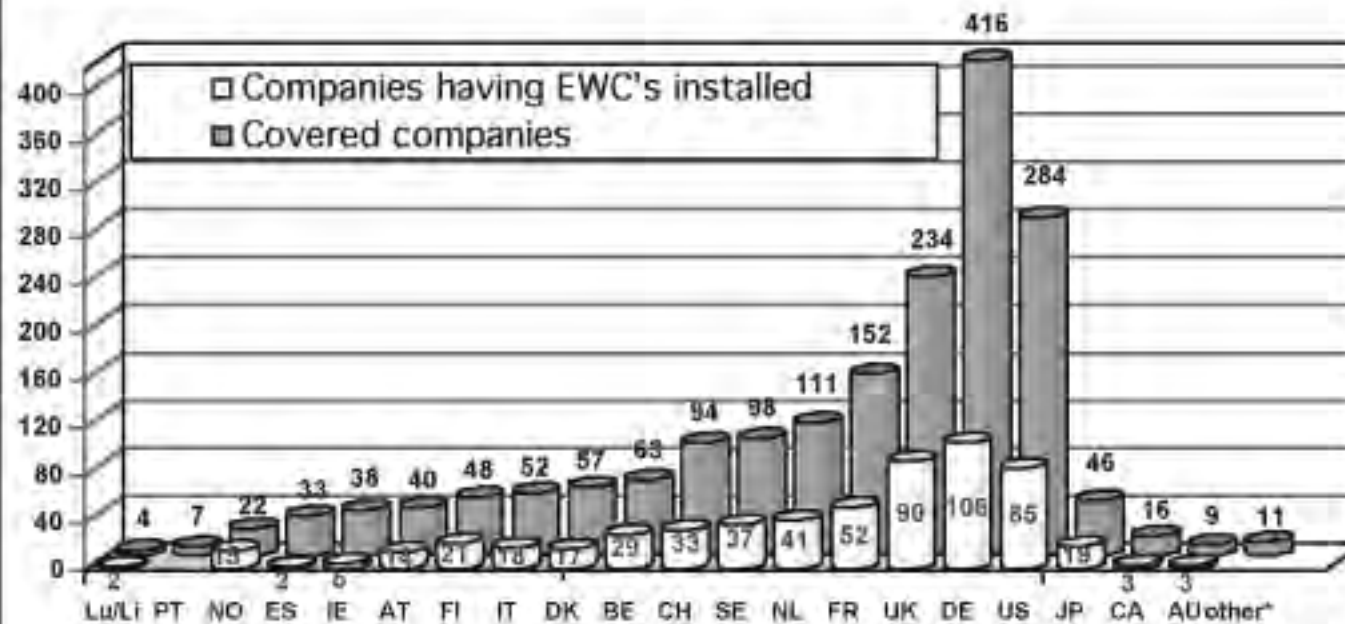

1997 brought a second EWC Directive, extending the first one to the UK, which came into force on 15 December 1999. It can be found on the internet under; http://europa.eu.int/eur-lex/en/lif/dat/1997/en_397L0074.html. As a result some 300 additional companies were affected. Thanks to the fruitful co-operation with the contributing institutes and with the European Industry Federations, the ETUI Multinationals Database now records 1835 companies covered by the EWC Directive.

Every year sees the creation of new EWCs. At the beginning of 2000 a total of 592 companies had set up EWCs. At the same time 1243 companies still have to set up EWCs. Tables presenting these figures are given following this introduction, together with the list of companies for which EWCs have been set up. The world of multinational companies is constantly moving. Mergers, take-overs, and selling of subsidiaries from one multinational to the other are daily news (<http://europa.eu.int/comm/competition/mergers/cases/>). In close co-operation with the contributing institutes and the European Industry Federations, the ETUI will be up-dating this database on a continuous basis.

A promotion leaflet presenting the full version of the Multinationals database will be sent to you on request. Please contact the ETUI secretariat for more information. (www.etuc.org/etui ☎ +32-2-224 04 70 📠 + 32-2-224 05 02 📧 kvergeyl@etuc.org).

ETUI multinationals database

Using the Multinationals Database on your own PC

Get started with the new version of the Multinationals Database, now available on CD rom

The latest version of the Database contains 1835 Companies affected by the directive on European Works Councils 94/45/EC and 97/74/EC

Find any company at a glance, display numerous details on the parent companies and their subsidiaries:

name, acronym, country of ownership, status under the directive, number of employees, sector of activity, EWC agreement, etc.

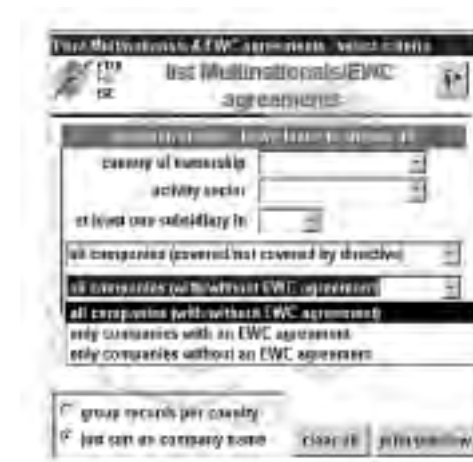

Move from the subsidiaries to their parent companies and from the parent companies to their subsidiaries or to the EWC agreement information with a simple click.

Print lists containing exactly the kind of data you need.

Combine any of the selection criteria, both for the Multinationals and for the Subsidiaries reports (country of ownership, sector of activity, company having an EWC and/or a subsidiary in a specific country), and produce exactly the well-documented company list you require.

The numerous search and print possibilities are clearly explained in a practical user guide.

This book contains a set of printed reports drawn from the database CD rom.

Read more about it in our promotional leaflet obtainable upon demand: tel.: +32-02-224 04 70 e-mail: etui@etuc.org
